Trainees support homeless,

Berlin the 20th of December 2017 — The streets of Berlin count 4.000 to 6.000 homeless people. Homeless shelters from the Berliner Stadtmission are the only possibility for homeless people to have a safe sleeping zone and a warm meal.

On Tuesday, the 19th of December in Berlin-Reinickendorf six trainees from the HGHI Group offered homeless woman and man a pre-christmasy enjoyment as they got invited for a traditional dinner in Kopenhagner Straße 29.

Over 1500 volunteers help needy people in more than 80 projects, residential establishments and social services, which got established by Berliner Stadtmission. Several of the workers help in multiple voluntary services in different locations. The constitution got assistance from 22 young adults in line with a gap year to do voluntary work and 46 trainees, who operate in different sectors (from hotel and restaurant industry over care of the elderly and office work to welfare work).

Also Berliner Stadtmission get's support from Berlin companies like HGHI Holding. "In Berlin live so many people on the streets, the support for the Stadtmission is a matter of heart", - emphasizes owner and CEO Harald Gerome Huth.

To arrange a traditional dish or set the table- the trainees took the role of the kitchen staff and served the homeless goose, red cabbage and dumplings. "It is a pleasure to see, how the People get joyful for it", said Jeanine Nadolle, budding events manager in second year as an apprentice.

Shelter manager Margita Bach praised the commitment of the young kitchen helpers. "Great you all came. For our guests, the traditional dinner is a culinary highlight and a welcome distraction from living on the streets."

The kitchen service won't be the only activity. Trainees of the HGHI will also do voluntary work for Berliner Stadtmission in the future. The company also donated 10.000 EUR to the Stadtmission. The donation contributes to build an ambulant sickroom.

"Homeless people aren't only getting medical care, we can also take care of every other issue. Without the financial support we couldn't get a further room, therefore a big thank you to HGHI", said Mrs Bach.
